Why Surf Maldives?

The Maldives, known for its pristine turquoise waters, white sandy beaches, and stunning coral reefs, is also home to some of the world's most consistent waves. Surfers flock to this tropical paradise to ride its crystal-clear barrels and enjoy the warm surf conditions.

November marks the conclusion of the surfing season in the Maldives. While the waves tend to be smaller during this period, a notable advantage, particularly in the Maldives, is that there are very few people at the surf spots. Based on our extensive experience, the first half of November presents an ideal window for intermediate surfers to make significant progress.

Additional information

Do I need to bring my own surfboard?

Ideally, we encourage those who can bring their own boards to do so. However, if needed, we can arrange surfboard rentals on-site for an additional fee, with the exact pricing to be determined.

Optimal Arrival Schedule

It's best to arrive in Malé on a morning flight. The centralized airport transfer will be no later than 12:00 pm on the first day of the camp, allowing us to have lunch, unpack, and go surfing in the afternoon

What surf level is this trip for?

Ideally, this trip is for intermediate-level surfers who have experience with lineups and can ride independently but aren't yet ready for the big summer swells of the Maldives and the crowds that come with them.

Is alcohol permitted on the island or at the guesthouse?

In all the local islands throughout the Maldives, it is prohibited to consume alcoholic beverages due to respect for local customs and religion. However, certain boats have licenses to serve cocktails and wine for consumption on board. Thulusdhoo, a tourist island, has one of these Bar Boats anchored just outside the lagoon, where you can enjoy drinks at sunset or music in the evening
